Your clan lives in 10,000 BCE on a landscape filled with megafauna from the previous ice age. Although your clan relies on gatherers to collect plant foods, they depend on you to venture into the wilds to collect wild game. And this is no easy task … the risks are high, the journeys long, and your people’s survival may depend on it! So that’s why it’s important you strategize with your hunting party and come prepared. Good thing you have an arsenal of tools and skills just for that!

You will be embarking on a new hunting adventure with your group soon. And the clan will want to hear all about your journey! To make a successful hunting story with your party, research first about:

• Why Clovis people hunted for wild game: ____________________________________________________________

• How many people will you take with you on your hunt: ____________________________________________

• Coordinate with your hunting party. What is the best strategy to taking down your fauna? ________________

Next, with your other clan members, plot your hunting story on a separate piece of paper. Your story should be about 4 minutes long. Remember, the audience will judge your story on factual accuracy, creativity, and performance! Here are some things to consider when plotting your story:

- Where does your clan live?
- Why did your clan need to go hunting?
- What tools did you bring with you on the trip?
- What animal were you after? Why?
- Where did you find it on the landscape?
- What tools and strategies did you use?
- What was challenging about the hunt?
- What were your feelings/emotions during the hunt?
- Were you successful?
- What did you use the animal for?

Now with your group, draw/create at least six art panels that convey your hunting story plot. You can color, sketch, paint, or find clipart and online images to convey your story. You will use these images when presenting your hunting story to the class.
